

The use of cell phones inflight can be compared with smoking onboard an aircraft. It would be disruptive to the other passengers as most cell phone users do not have any idea that there is such a thing as telephone etiquette. This is obvious as you see them use phone in the terminal as well as when boarding flights and prior to take-off. They will also interfere with the Flight Attendant's duties such as doing the security demo and any of the other PA's that we do inflight. Passengers will be unable to rest if there is a passenger near them speaking on a phone. Cell phones will in general be nothing but an annoyance and something that will cause a type of "road rage" in the skys.
